The Entire Russian Fleet.

IS ROJESTVENSKY DEAD OR ALIVE?

Meagre Reports Of The Greatest Battle Of Naval Warfare
That Was Ever Waged, Do Not Tell Story.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPPS-M'RAE.]

London, May 30, 5 a. m.—Admiral Rojestvensky's fate is in doubt. Tokio says some believe he may have perished. St. Petersburg quotes a rumor from Vladivostok that he was picked up, wounded, by a torpedo boat after his ship had been sunk.

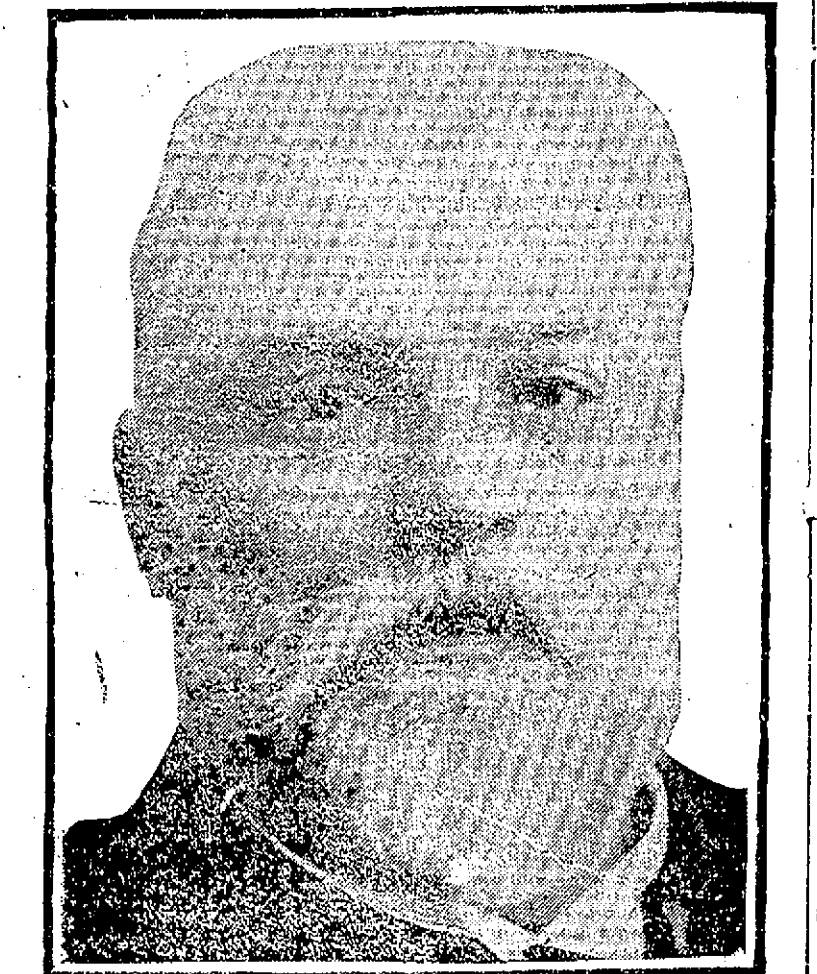

From the official reports of Admiral Togo, the Russian losses so far are as follows:

Sunk—Two battleships, six cruisers, three destroyers, two auxiliary ships—total, 13.

Captured—Two battleships, two coast defense ships, one destroyer, one auxiliary ship—total, 6.

Rear admiral captured—Nebogatoff. Lives probably lost—3,000.

Prisoners taken—3,000.

REAR ADMIRAL NEBOGATOFF.

The names of the warships sunk or captured, as reported so far, follow:

Battleships sunk—Dorodino, Alexander III.

Battleships captured—Nicholai I. Orel.

Cruisers sunk—Nakhimoff, Oustia-koff, Dimitri, Donskoi, Jemichug, Svetlana, Monomakh.

Coast defense ships captured—Seniavin, Apraxine.

Auxiliary ships sunk—Kamchanka, Irutshush.

Is Celebrating

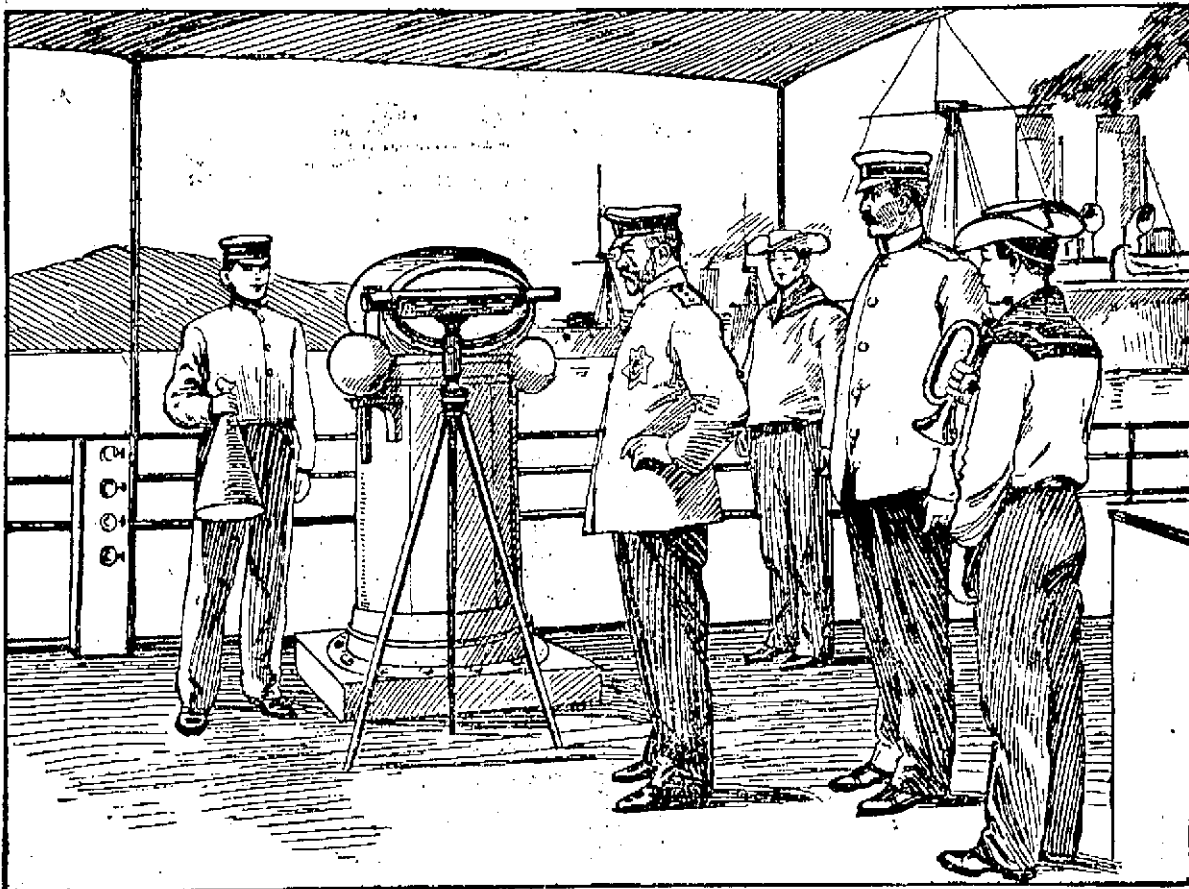

Tokio, May 30.—Tokio celebrated Japan's great naval victory last night. The main thoroughfares, streets and leading government buildings of the capital were thronged with joyous, cheering crowds. Impromptu processions moved in various directions.

The parades carried lanterns and went singing through the streets following bands. Plans are afoot for an organized celebration of Togo's victory.

Tokio, May 30.—The number of Russian vessels of all descriptions sunk and captured by Admiral Togo's

CREW OF THE JAPANESE CRUISER ASAMA.

ADMIRAL TOGO ON THE QUARTER DECK OF THE BATTLESHIP MIKASA.

When Admiral Togo first took command of the Japanese fleet his officers gathered around him. In front of them, says the Century Magazine, were placed a white wood tray, used for sacred purposes, and a dagger, the old sacred symbol of samurai honor. It meant honor or death. Togo looked in silence at his officers and then upon the sacred symbol of samurai honor. At last he said: "Gentlemen, the pleasant day which we spent on the hillside of Sasebo was our farewell feast to our wives and children and to life. The squadrons will sail today. I have the honor to announce to you, gentlemen, that the enemy of our country flies the Russian flag."

NEARLY READY FOR THE GRAND OPENING

The Lewis and Clarke Exposition to Officially Open on June 1.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Portland, Ore., May 30.—The Lewis and Clarke Exposition which opens day after tomorrow will be ready from every viewpoint. Today the incoming trains are bringing to Portland large numbers of visitors who will witness the formal opening of the exposition by Vice-president Fairbanks, representing President Roosevelt. ## TO FIND MEMBERS

Assembly Passes Stringent Rule In Regard
To Attendance for Rest of Session.

ADJOURNED UNTIL WEDNESDAY

Railway Bill Will Be Passed During The Present Week Without Fail--Will Rush Work From Now On.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., May 30.—The legislature is idle today and the members are taking their last breath before winding up the remaining business of this long and dragged-out session, which will come to a close, a week from Saturday if possible, but probably the end will come Wednesday, June 14. The last day depends upon the persistence with which a few remaining controverted measures are contested. The mortgage taxation bill has delayed the assembly practically a day, in spite of the fact that business has been done each day since the intermittent call of the house was had Friday night. Had it not are declaring as with the manner of a boast that "what the senate went do to the mortgage tax bill—well, there's no telling." The bill provides that the money-lender hereafter shall pay the tax on that portion of the real estate held by his money and that unless he pays, his mortgage shall be null and void. In order to get a quorum the assembly last night passed a motion to fine all members who refused or failed to be present Wednesday unless excused in advance from attendance. This is necessary because several members declare they will not return to finish the session, the most protracted in the history of the state,

VICE ADMIRAL ROJESTVENSKY, COMMANDING RUSSIA'S SECOND PACIFIC SQUADRON.

been for the mortgage tax fight many other bills would be disposed of which are still hanging over day by day on the calendar. This fight will come to a head Wednesday, when it is hoped by the leaders that a full vote will be had. This will doubtless pass the bill through the lower house, and in prospect of this the opponents as they cannot longer remain away from their private business affairs. The railroad rate commission bill was reported to the assembly practically without amendment, the few changes being simply verbal and other corrections. It will pass this week and reach the governor probably Saturday.

...Forty Years Ago...

Janesville Daily Gazette, Tuesday, May 30.—New Songs.—Just received at Wilsons, "Starved in Prison," by G. F. Root; "How It Marches," the Flag of the Union," "Comrade, All Around is Brightness," also by Geo. F. Root.

The Janesville Volunteers' Union.—The last meeting of this Association of Soldiers of the United States Army—discharged and still in service—for mutual assistance, encouragement and renewal of old associations, was held in the office of J. Baker, Esq., on Thursday evening, May 25th.

The following named officers were duly elected for the ensuing six months:

President—Ira Millmore.

Vice-presidents—Joseph Baker, Pliny Norcross.

Secretary—H. R. Horbart.

Treasurer—J. C. Metcalf.

Board of Vigilance—Dr. S. A. Jones, Dr. S. L. Lord, H. L. Robertson, C. G. Gillette, C. A. Rider.

Remarks were made by Mr. Baker inviting all soldiers to assist in increasing and strengthening the Union, and showing that its objects are to assist infirm and disabled members, provide for the needy families of volunteers, to aid its members in procuring employment as they return from the army, and sustain and support each other in all laudable and all proper ways.

The Milwaukee Home.—The net proceeds resulting from the exhibition of articles for the Chicago Fair, on Saturday last, will be expended for materials to be made up for the Milwaukee home. Those desiring work can either apply to Mrs. Josiah Wright, Mrs. P. L. Smith, Mrs. F. Moseley, Mrs. Farrington, Mrs. Plympton, Mrs. John Winans, or Mrs. Theodore Treat.

Many who gave in their names as contributors to the Chicago Fair, it is supposed, have retained the promised articles for the Milwaukee home, preferring to labor for their own state. The last week in June a committee will be appointed to collect these contributions. The time is very limited and it is hoped that every one will labor with unwonted zeal and earnestness, as the call appeals to the heart of every citizen in the state.

The News.

The trial of Jeff Davis before the U. S. Circuit Court will commence on motion Pliny Norcross and Dr. S. L. Lord were requested to read disposed of.

The arrest of General Lee is announced.

The secretary was instructed to report the proceedings of this meeting for publication in the Janesville Gazette, and the Union adjourned till Thursday evening, June 1st, at 7 1/2 o'clock, at the same place as before, at which time all volunteers of this city are invited to be present.

H. R. HOBART, Sec.

THE MILITARY TURBAN

The somewhat severe lines of this smart Panama turban are relieved in the application of small Rankla roses with gullings of velvet ribbons and festooned loops and ends of the same. The crown is low and round, and the wide brim is pinched up into the turban shape all around, a smart point coming exactly in the front. Each end is separately and differently trimmed, the greater part of the trimming being posed just at the left of the front, where a stiff-looking rosette is made with the next one towards the back by loops of ribbon, and the other side is simply trimmed with little bunches of the roses tucked into the folds. The back is built up somewhat by a bandeau, and this, too, is trimmed with flowers and velvet ribbon.

Drinking Water for the Study.

A useful article in a study is a small filter for drinking water, which should be filled and run off every day. People are often fevered with hard work and when the appetite languishes in warm weather and they are pressed for time they can take a glass of cold water with a little lemon juice squeezed into it and find it most relieving then, when nothing else will tempt them.

Wanted Half a Spool.

A small boy asked the clerk for a spool of cotton. The boy had only 1 cent and the clerk informed him that 2 cents was the price for the cheapest cotton. "Can't you sell me half a spool?" asked the boy.

Gigantic Lily.

A gigantic lily, the phormium tenax, is a valuable plant peculiar to New Zealand. Its leaves are nine or ten feet long, and are so tough that, by splitting one into narrow ribbons and joining the ends, the New Zealander has a first-class rope ready to hand.

Cure for Consumption.

A six months' tour by bullock in South Africa is the latest cure for consumption, as advertised by a London doctor. Your own milk cow accompanies you, the pace is only two miles an hour, there are frequent outposts, and vegetables, butter, butcher's meat, fowls and eggs are easily obtainable, it is said. The total cost is only $525.

Noted Eton Man.

Mr. Austen Leigh, an authority on all matters pertaining to Eton, has discovered that Thomas Lynch, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence, was an Etonian.

To Keep Cake Fresh.

I have found that fresh bread in slices about one inch thick (renewed when it gets dry), of bulk about half the cake to be kept "fresh," put in the tin with the cake causes the cake to remain "fresh."—C. D. Field in Scientific American.

SEMINARY JUBILEE PROGRAM ELABORATE

One of the Greatest Events in the History of Evansville Takes Place Next Week.

Evansville, May 30.—Invitations have been issued for the Fiftieth anniversary Jubilee of the Evansville Seminary to be held here from Sunday, May 4 to Thursday the 8th. The event will be one of the greatest and most interesting in the history of the city. Former students and instructors of the institution will gather and celebrate the occasion with a most elaborate program lasting four days will be carried out. Among the speakers are many who are famous as educators and others who have gone into different walks of life and won renown. The annual prize declamatory contest and the commencement exercises will be parts of the jubilee program.

Seminary's History.

The school was first established by Rev. Asa Wood in 1855, under the Methodist Episcopal denomination and the church was used as a school building. In 1860 a new building was erected and the school was moved from the old Methodist church. Mr. David L. Mills gave the land where the new Seminary edifice was erected. In 1868 the school passed from the Methodists to the Free Will Baptist denomination and in 1879 was taken by the Free Methodists under whose management it is now run. Since that time the "old" building or dormitory as it is now called, has been extensively improved and about sixteen years ago a large building was constructed which is used for the assembly room, recitation rooms and similar purposes.

The Benefits of Modern Plumbing.

One of the most generally approved ideas of modern plumbing is that of installing one-piece lavatories supplied with hot and cold running water in the sleeping apartments and dressing chambers of the individual members of the household.

The benefits derived from this arrangement will not only be found necessary to modern living, but also prove a source of convenience and comfort to the occupants.

THE HEROIC DEAD.

Fourteen and seven years ago our fathers brought forth upon this continent a new nation, conceived in liberty, and dedicated to the purpose that all men are created equal. Now we are engaged in a great civil war, testing whether that nation, or any nation so conceived and so dedicated, can long endure. We are met on a great battle-field of that war. We have come to dedicate a portion of that field as a final resting-place for those who here gave their lives that that nation might live. It is altogether fitting and proper that we should do this. But in a larger sense we cannot dedicate, we cannot consecrate, we cannot hallow this ground. The great men, living and dead, who struggled here, have consecrated it far above our power to add or detract. The world will little note, nor long remember what we say here, but it can never forget what they did here. It is for us, the living, rather to be dedicated to the unfinished work which they who fought here have thus far so nobly advanced. It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us, that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion; that we highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain; that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom, and that government of the people, by the people, and for the people, shall not perish from the earth.—LINCOLN.

ORIGIN OF MEMORIAL DAY.

Lillian A. North thus writes of the founder and origin of Memorial day: "A boy was sentenced to be shot. His mother sat on the steps of the capitol in Washington. She remained there distracted with grief for three days and nights trying in vain to see President Lincoln. A lady, beautiful and of loving disposition, passing in front of the capitol, paused to learn the pitiful story, and then, with the determination of that viking race from which she sprang, sought and pleaded the poor mother's cause with the president himself. Lincoln hearkened to her eloquence, and turning his sad eyes on her said: 'Take this card to Stanton and save the boy and mother. It is a relief to have you tell me how you would manage the affairs of state.' 'The battle of Winchester was over, the condition of General Molineux's command demoralized, so as to bring on this officer in the presence of his men a sharp reproof from Sheridan. A lady, beautiful and of loving disposition, had nursed General Molineux after he had been wounded in a previous battle in the performance of a brave duty. She addressed General Sheridan thus: 'You have done a great wrong to a brave man.' The hero of Winchester replied, 'Madam, if I have done so, I will apologize to him before his soldiers.' And he supplemented this act of gallantry by recommending General Molineux for a major-generalship!"

"The lady was Mrs. Kimball. It was while she was traveling in the south that she noticed how assiduously the southern women garlanded the graves of those who had died in the cause of the Confederacy. She thought of the weed-strewn, neglected mounds over the brave boys who fell fighting in the blue, and wrote to General John A. Logan, then commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, in suggestive admiration and requested example of those southern women. Her eloquent pleading enlisted the sympathy and co-operation of General Logan, and resulted in the famous order No. 2 that went into effect on the 30th of day, 1868, establishing Memorial Day. Mrs. Kimball, who died at her home in the Quaker City some three years ago, now lies at Laurel Hill, a little mound, a simple headstone and a huge Norwegian pine mark the spot where the founder of a great national custom lies buried."

All over the north today little squads of veterans, with feeble step and faltering pace, inspired by the music of the old drum corps, have marched to the cemeteries and paid loving tribute to the memory of comrades of other years.

On the 26th of April the veterans of the south performed the same loving service, and so after the lapse of 40 years one common tomb cements in sacred memories the rank and file of two great armies both contending for what they believed to be right. Time, the great restorer, has wrought many changes since Memorial day was established. Exultation over success and bitterness because of defeat have disappeared. The imaginary line dividing the north and south, no longer exists, and loyalty to flag and country was never more universal than today.

The veterans of the north and veterans of the south, meet as friends. As they gather on Memorial day and memory harks back to the days of strife and suffering, naught remains but a feeling of sorrow made sacred by the lapse of years.

The silent forces of both armies are rapidly filling up their ranks and the Grand Army of the Republic will soon pass from the stage of action, but Memorial day will be perpetuated long after the final roll-call, for future generations will be glad to honor the memory of the brave men who saved the nation in its hour of peril.

THE CORRUPT LOBBY.

The governor's special message to the legislature on the "lobby" is another effort along the line of grandstand play, for which that gentleman is noted.

It is an appeal to ignorance and prejudice so cleverly disguised, that people who permit other people to do their thinking at once conclude that the legislature needs a guardian.

The only inference is that the average legislator is not a man of ordinary intelligence and that he needs protecting from the wiles of a designing constituency.

If this is true and the people select this class of men to represent their interests as well as the best interests of the state, then the best thing to do is to construct barracks on the capitol grounds, enclose the whole thing with a high board fence and protect the men from the common herd from the opening to the close of the session.

This talk of a corrupt lobby is the vaguest twaddle. Every citizen not in the legislature is a lobbyist if he takes interest enough in affairs of state to talk about them.

The man who represents him in the legislature is a public servant, selected, not to do his own bidding, or the bidding of the administration, but to serve the people of the state.

He should be open to consultation at all times, and he should be large enough and fair enough to act on his own judgment after carefully analyzing questions presented by his lobby.

The governor has had a great deal to say about the railroads of Wisconsin, he seems to have the impression that these roads are the exclusive property of the state.

Concede that they are, then certainly they have the right to safeguard their interests and present to their servants, the legislature, their views concerning proposed legislation.

A man is supposed to be a man in spite of the fact that he became a legislator. When he reaches a point where it becomes necessary to shut him off from contact with his fellows, it is time to place him on the retired list.

THE JAPANESE VICTORY.

The long looked for engagement between the Japanese and Russian fleets, has become a matter of history, and Admiral Togo has won new laurels.

But little doubt as to results has been expressed because the Russian navy has long been a by-word, while the Japs know but little of defeat either on land or sea.

If the naval battle just fought hastens the declaration of peace, as it doubtless will, it will prove a blessing to the world, and especially to the nations involved.

The cause has seemed hopeless for Russia from the beginning of the outbreak. The war has been carried on 7000 miles from home, under disadvantages which would discourage any nation.

The personnel of the army was weak, and the men in the ranks were fighting, not for principles but because they were compelled to.

Internal strife and lack of money or credit has also been a handicap and defeat has saved the nation in the fact for many months.

Every Japanese soldier is a patriot and enthusiasm has marked every movement. They started out to win and death was nothing compared to defeat.

The army has been lead by men of consummate skill, who have succeeded in reducing the art of war to a science.

When peace is declared there may be a new alignment of nations, and it will not be surprising if Japan demands recognition in larger degree than ever before.

form legislation run through the assembly at the last minute to furnish capital for the next campaign.

It is time for the legislature to adjourn and give the people a rest. Enough reform measures have been passed to keep the public guessing for the next two years.

The open shop is not a menace to unionism. It is simply the recognition of law, which means the right of every man to work.

When the teamsters' strike is called off there will be more teamsters than horses in Chicago.

Russia will now have an opportunity to devote a little time to affairs at home.

WHAT OTHERS ARE DOING.

The Indianapolis, Ind., Sentinel has changed hands. J. W. Allan, of New York, and H. J. Havermeyer of Cincinnati have succeeded to the editorial and business management respectively, of the paper once owned almost entirely by Thomas Taggart, chairman of the Democratic National Committee. Democrats now believe that the Sentinel will come out flatfooted for Bryan and that Mr. Taggart's retirement was brought about for this purpose.

The Daily Labor Bulletin is the name of the newspaper published by the Chicago Federation of Labor giving "all the news of the strike situation." The paper is six pages in size and, naturally, takes the side of the strikers in the present fight.

To make clear the position of the postoffice department as to what shall constitute a newspaper, as determined by the regulations pertaining to second class matter, Third Assistant Postmaster-General Madden has issued instructions to show when a supplement is not a supplement, intended as a response to various inquiries regarding the matter. A supplement to be mailed with a newspaper or periodical at the second-class rate after September 1, must be in truth a "supplement," germane to the publication; it must be matter supplied in order to complete that to which it is alleged to be a supplement. It must appear, in point of fact, that the publication is incomplete without its supplement and it must also appear in point of fact that the function of the supplement is subsidiary and not independent, or complete in itself; in other words, it requires both to make a complete copy of that issue.

The Boston Herald has greatly increased its popularity by getting up a party of the most popular teachers in the Hub, decided by a school vote, for the Portland Exposition. All of the expenses of the trip will be borne by the Herald and there will be stop-overs at important points so that the teachers might study places of interest for the benefit of the children.

With the July number of the Book-lovers' Magazine, heretofore published as an adjunct of the Booklovers' Library, the periodical will pass into the control of D. Appleton & Co., when it will appear with the title of "Appleton's Booklovers' Magazine." According to present plans there will be no immediate change in the editorial management of the magazine, but the periodical will be modeled after Harper's, Scribner's, and the Century.

T. BURNS MAY HAVE COME FROM BELOIT

Visitors Here This Morning Thought He Could Find Parties That Would Identify the Body.

Regarding T. Burns, the stranger who ended his life by asphyxiation at the Grand hotel early Sunday morning, there were no important developments this forenoon. Henry Blunk accompanied by a Beloit man visited Nelson's undertaking rooms and the latter believed that he could find someone in Beloit who would identify the body. It was his impression that Burns had been working in the Lino City prior to coming here. It is learned that he brought the black sateen shirt and hat he wore of John Wilcox at the Baack store Saturday afternoon. Mr. Wilcox noticed nothing out of the ordinary in his bearing. This latter fact casts considerable doubt on the convict-released-from-prison theory that some have entertained.

NEW PARIS FASHIONS

The well-dressed woman has long since learned that one of the secrets of success of feminine attire is to be correctly bloused. This is one of the dogmas of her sartorial religion.

The newest blouses as shown in the smart shops of Paris have one distinguishing feature which their predecessors did not boast and that is trimmings which will be used probably in the effort to de throne the indispensable bit of hand-embroidery. If the blouse is made of lace, it may be trimmed with enameled or hand-painted buttons, some so tiny that they are sown on only with greatest difficulty. In addition to their natural expense the time employed in using them as a trimming adds much to the expense of some of the new designs.

While linen in all its guises is unquestionably the fabric par excellence for midsummer wear, there are seen just now some charming blouses of tulle and soft silks which look extremely chic with the separate skirts of voile and silk. These waists are made with puffed sleeves to the elbow and trimmed with wide collars opening over a low cut neck to accommodate a glimpse of chemise of linen and lace.

Certainly no feature of the fashionable blouse commends itself so irresistibly to the lover of beautiful clothes than the yoke, for this is arranged in an almost endless variety of designs. If it is not of fine lace or embroidery, tucks or fancy stitching, then it is outlined in intricate design with tiny bands of Valenciennes insertion. The lace is put on either with hemstitching or if sewn on plain, has the edges finished with the finest of lace edges, the lace being gauged thickly and stitched on with silk threads in some fancy stitch.

The square yoke is pretty for a lingerie blouse and it is capable of great variety of treatment. For instance a very chic model had the yoke just outlined with lace, edged with tiny ruffles of Valenciennes as just described above. The inner portion of the yoke was laid in the finest of hemstitched tucks; then came the lace bands and another band of tucking finished with more lace until the effect was carried out as deep as the bustline. Below the yoke in the front of the blouse was applied an immense medallion of French embroidery of most delicate design. The sleeves reached the elbow, falling over fitted cuffs of tucks and lace ruffles, with a medallion centered in each puff.

It may not be the most agreeable news to the woman who has had her smartest summer gowns made up with very full sleeves with the hope of using them for house occasions during the early fall to know that the fashionable sleeve is diminishing in size, yet such is the case. There are the most disquieting rumors afloat regarding the size of the sleeves of fall gowns, advance models of which will be appearing in the ultra-smart ateliers within a few weeks. In fact some of the linen frocks to be shipped to Cannes later in the season and others designed for the week at Kiel have sleeves only half the size of those shown early in the summer.

A variety of yokes is afforded in the deep tucks which run round and round the figure, sometimes edged with fine thread lace, or, another pretty way to trim a lingerie blouse is to alternate the tucks, with a narrow ruffle of lace or with inset bands of insertion.

A pretty yoke with scalloped edges can be outlined with several rows of Valenciennes frills put on very closely to the top one being finished with a fine braid or a row of stitching, such as fagoting, etc.

Although it is not a habit to which the woman of extravagant tastes resorts, the little trick of turning in the top of a blouse to accommodate a chemise or guimpe frequently adds daintiness to a simple costume. Of course this can be done only with waists that button at the front, but if turned in neatly and secured with fancy pins, which are used in all sorts of ways, the deception can be practiced very cleverly. Some of the daintiest guimpes are those made of batiste and sheer lawn and they are not necessarily expensive. They have cuffs to match; although the latter may be of more elaborate design, being trimmed with tucks, then marked off in squares or small diamonds, with bands of insertion.

CIRCUS DAY HAS ITS OWN CHARMS

SMALL BOYS ENJOY THE EARLY MORNING SIGHTS.

HOW THE CIRCUS MEN LIVE

A Trip to the Lot—Everything Is Full of Life and Animation.

If there is a small boy in the city today who cannot tell you just what time the circus came to town, how many wagons they had, how many elephants were unloaded, whether the elephants trumpeted when they saw the river or whether they calmly caught hold of each other's tails and walked along like sedate elephants should, you had best see a doctor about him at once. Something is wrong. Nor were the small boys the only ones who witnessed the unloading of the big circus that is exhibiting here today. A circus has a fascination for both young and old. A child is never too young to be taken to a circus and a man is never too old to go and enjoy the wonderful sights.

The First Thing.
Hardly had the first train reached Janesville from their run from Milwaukee before the lot man and boss canvasman were on their way to the circus lot. The lay of the land was carefully noted and in a few minutes the location of the big top is decided on, the animals' tent is placed, the horse tent is given the proper facing, the side show tents are located. Then comes a direct of stakes and a gang of men. Directions are quickly given and the work begins. By this time all is bustle on the lot. The small boys are everywhere, in everybody's road. More wagons and more men are coming. The cook tent has already begun to steam up and appetizing odors are wafted on the cool air. Wagons with animals are coming. The elephants have been brought in. The animal tent is up. The side shows are strung with their banners. Men are hustling in the seats and the activity and life of the tent city has begun. Begun only to be torn down a few hours from now and by tomorrow morning nothing but the remnants of the "greatest show on earth" will be left on the lot and in the minds of the small boys.

Quite a Sight.
It is interesting to note what these circus people eat during one day. They are hard workers and need lots of good wholesome food. A circus bill of fare for the Forepaugh-Sells circus is well worth reading. Roughly speaking the animals and men consume in one day the following list:

For employees:
Meat . . . . . 1,200 lbs.
Bread . . . . . 600 loaves
Vegetables . . . . . 200 cans
Coffee . . . . . 200 gals.
Potatoes . . . . . 75 bus.
Butter . . . . . 100 lbs.
Sugar, salt, and pepper are purchased by the barrel.

For horses, camels and elephants:
Hay . . . . . 300 bales
Oats and straw . . . . . 300 bales
Straw . . . . . 125 bales
For carnivorous animals:
Meat . . . . . 1,000 lbs.

In addition to this, large quantities of vegetables are purchased for the herbivorous animals and sea lions are fed with fish.
Cook Tent at Full Blast.
The cook tent, which is regarded as the most important equipment of a well regulated circus, for showmen must eat. A small army of white aproned chefs were busily engaged preparing the noon day meal, and their efforts were the source of much wonderment to the spectators. One man was opening cans of corn for the case, while another had attacked a wheelbarrow load of cabbage, and was transforming it into cold slaw as a phenomenal clip. Pots and kettles, much larger than the family washbasin, were simmering on the four stool ranges, each larger than is required by an ordinary restaurant. Three big kettles of soup, 115 gallons in all, boiling over an open fire, attracted much attention.

Dining Tent is Attractive.
The dining tent, which adjoins the kitchen, did not escape inspection, and many favorable comments were made on its clean and neat appearance. All of the dishes were enameled ware and they were arranged in rows along long tables and four urns supplied the coffee, which was drawn off in aluminum pots and served. There was an atmosphere of neatness and cleanliness which gave assurance that circus people are well fed.

FIRST REAL CROSS COUNTRY RUN TAKEN

Seven Young Men on Expedition—Hurdled Fences, Jumped Creeks, and Scrambled Through Woods.
Six young men, accompanied by Physical Director J. A. Ward, left the U. M. C. A. building shortly after the supper hour last evening and indulged in the first real cross-country run of the season. Their route lay out Pleasant street toward Hanover, then across fields and meadows, over hills, hurdling fences and springing across creeks and through woods and brush to the three-mile creek and home by way of the Afton road. It was a six-mile trip, the larger part of which lay over unpatented ground. Those who participated were William Poenichen, Arthur Clark, Allan Riller, J. A. Ward, Rollo Dobson, William Heise and Albert Huebel.

Prof. Thiele Will Judge. Prof. W. T. Thiele of this city, Prof. Tyler of Beloit college, and Prof. Carroll of Beloit compose the committee of judges who will pass upon the work of the bands in the big contest at the Woodmen's picnic.
Two Crooks Jailed. Two suspicious looking characters were apprehended on the streets this morning and placed behind the bars. The crop will probably be larger before the day is over.

BADGER GUN CLUB TO SHOOT SUNDAY

New Organization Expect to Hold Initial Contest at New Park June Fourth.

"The Badger Gun Club" is the name that has been decided upon by the newly organized trapshooters body of this city. The range, to be located on property belonging to M. G. Jeffris just south of the Choate-Hollister Furniture Factory has been staked out and the trap will be installed as soon as it arrives, some time this week it is thought. It has been ordered and is a black bird trap, throwing the clay saucers at unknown angles. The committee which determined on it and will be in charge of its installation consists of Charles Groffey, William Bolton and William Williams. If possible the first shoot will be held this Sunday and contests arranged for every Sunday for the summer. A meeting may be called this week to transact further business. The officers of the society now are permanent treasurer, Tony Hausaiki; temporary chairman, John Horn; and temporary secretary, William Williams.

HAS SCOFIELD'S COW THE TUBERCULOSIS?

The Daughter of the Famous Republican Cow of the Former Governor Afflicted.

Several years ago Governor Scofield had a cow that traveled by express from Oconto to Madison. This same cow caused more or less talk and caused the present rupture in the republican party owing to the fact it traveled free. It is as wonderful a cow in its way as Mrs. O'Leary's cow that kicked the lamp over that burned Chicago or in fact as the fabled cow that Mother Goose writes of "Jumped over the Moon." It was a good cow and gave Governor Scofield's family large quantities of milk. Since its retirement from public life at Madison to the former governor's home at Oconto the cow has gone the way of all good cows. However, a daughter of this famous animal promises to appear in the public limelight. Recently Governor Scofield read of tuberculosis in cows. Then he noticed his cow and as a result the veterinarian at Oconto has sent to State Veterinarian Roberts word that the ex-governor wanted his cow treated for tuberculosis. The test has been ordered and should it be found suffering from this malady it will be killed with all due form.

GIVES CREDIT TO WHOM CREDIT IS DUE

"The Health Evangelist" Is Paid a Tribute in the Evening Wisconsin.

George Grassy, in his Assembly column in the Milwaukee Evening Wisconsin pays a back-handed compliment to Dr. Roberts, "the Health Park Evangelist" of Janesville which may be interesting to the Doctor's friends to read.
"The committee on claims has passed on two bills providing for open air tuberculosis treatment for consumptives. One provides for the establishment of a $90,000 state hospital and the other appropriates $1200 for the Health park at Tomahawk, bequeathed to the Health Park association by "Bill" Bradley. The association under the constant spurring by Dr. Roberts of Janesville has raised a few hundred dollars, but needs a few hundred more to prevent the donation of the Tomahawk man from reverting to the estate. It is proposed to maintain the philanthropic institution in a modest way until the state institution is built and ready for operations. Dr. Roberts, the weakened little apostle of open air treatment for consumptives, who has stirred up sentiment for the health park idea, is entitled to the credit of both propositions.

BRIEF BITS OF LOCAL NEWS

Thieves Follow Circus: Saturday when the Forepaugh-Sells shows were in Freeport, the home of Attorney L. H. Burrois was robbed of ninety dollars in cash and jewelry valued by the police at eight hundred dollars. The "swag" was taken from a dresser.

Many From the West: The largest delegations to arrive in the city over the steam roads, attracted here by the circus, came in from and around the towns of Orfordville, Footville, Brodhead, Juda, Monroe and beyond.

Some Missed Parade: Deluded by the belief that the Forepaugh-Sells circus parade would not display until the noon hour, long after the time set for the passing of the pageant, many remained around the depot platforms and other places and missed the sight.

After Bigelow Now: Evelyn Campbell, who has been conspicuous as a member of the Chicago American staff in a series of sensational interviews with Bigelow, Hoch, and other notorious criminals, passed through Janesville last night on her way to Milwaukee where Banker Bigelow will be routed from his lair.

NOTICE TO BEET-GROWERS

The recent rains will start a thick and fast growth of weeds and grass and we wish to advise all growers to cultivate their fields as soon as dry enough. It is an easy matter to kill the weeds and grass if taken in time, but a good prospect of a crop can easily be ruined by a few days of neglect at this time of year. So watch your field carefully and do not let the weeds and grass get a start. You will also save time and expense by bunting as soon as you have a stand. Waiting until the beets are six inches high is a detriment to the crop.

ROCK COUNTY SUGAR CO.
All boys and girls wishing to work in the sugar-beet fields this season leave word at Walter Helm's seed store. Work will commence Saturday, June 3d, and continue until July 15th. ROCK COUNTY SUGAR CO.

TOTAL ARRESTS FOR 1905 NUMBER 740

City Marshal Comstock Gives Interesting Statistics in Report to Council—Tells How City Is Patrolled.

City Marshal John J. Comstock took up a number of matters of general interest in his report to the common council last evening, some of the most notable being the assignment of beats to the various officers, the dates of their qualifications under the civil service rules, the number of arrests that had been made during his incumbency and the causes. The grand total of arrests for the five months of 1905 is 740. Of this number a total of 631 drunks and vags have been looked up but not taken to court and a total of 109 persons have been arrested for various causes and prosecuted after arrest.

Crime in Janesville.
Of the 109 arrests followed by prosecution, 73 have been made for drunkenness and disorderly conduct; 6 for larceny; 6 for assault; 3 for burglary; 3 for incorrigibility; 2 for larceny from persons; 2 for vagrancy; 2 for violation of the Sunday saloon-closing ordinance; 2 for selling liquor after hours on week days; 1 for conducting a house of all fame; 1 for forgery; 1 for fornication; 1 for selling liquor to minors; 1 for failure in school attendance; 1 for wife-abandonment; 1 for violation of the bicycle ordinance; 1 for operating a slot-machine; 1 for abusive language; 1 for examination as to sanity; 1 suspected of larceny.

Distributed by Months.
March appears to have been the "banner" month for arrests. There were altogether 203. May, up to and including the 22nd day gave promise of showing the minimum—the total being 65. There were 126 in January; 118 in February, and 120 in April. Of the 109 arrests for violation of ordinances that were followed by prosecution, Officer Brown is credited with 43; Officer Fanning with 18; Officer Morrissey with 14; Officer Bear with 13; Officer Benke with 12; and the City Marshal with 9. Officer Brown, it will be observed, has a long lead over the others in the number of important arrests made.

No Fees Received.
In addressing his report to the council, Marshal Comstock cited Chapter III of the revised charter which makes it a duty of the city marshal to keep an account of all fees that shall become due to him; to report the same in writing to the common council, monthly, under oath; and to give a detailed statement to whom due and the title of the case. "Up to this time," he said, "no money has come into my hands as city marshal. On Jan. 25 I received two vouchers from the county board on $82.62 marshal's fees from Rock county during the time John Brown was acting marshal, and turned them over to the city treasurer, Fathers, whose receipt is hereto attached. All fines are paid directly into municipal court, where a monthly report is made of the same to the city. All licenses and privileges from the city are paid directly to the city clerk."

Qualifications and Methods.
"On January 1 there were three patrolmen—John Brown, Fred W. Benke, and Patrick Fanning—with Thomas Morrissey acting as patrolman. John Brown took the civil service examination on Oct. 11, 1897; F. W. Benke on Dec. 19, 1898; Patrick Fanning on May 1, 1902; T. Morrissey on Feb. 6, 1905; Robert J. Bear on March 1, 1905; Peter D. Champion on May 15, 1905—the last three having been appointed by the present marshal. From January 1 it has been my aim to have an officer in the police office from 8 a. m. to 11 p. m., that he may respond to all calls personally or through telephone, with promptness and dispatch. To make the service still more efficient there should be an officer on duty continuously throughout the twenty-four hours."

Beats of Patrolmen.
The hours and beats of the officers were outlined by the city marshal as follows:

Officer Benke—on duty from 7 to 12 a. m. and from 2:00 to 7:00 p. m., covering the main streets on both sides of the river.

Officer Fanning—on duty from 7 p. m. to 7 a. m., covering the main streets on the west side of Jackson street together with both depots where he meets the majority of incoming trains, the railroad yards, and the roundhouse.

Officer Morrissey—on duty from 7 p. m. to 7 a. m., covering the territory on the east side of the river from Milwaukee street south, including the streets, alley, and city park.

Officer Bear—on duty from 7 p. m. to 7 a. m., covering the main streets and alleys east of Jackson street to the river. Began his duties on March 1.

Officer Champion—on duty from 7 p. m. to 7 a. m., covering the east side of the river from Milwaukee street north to Fourth avenue, including the bridge, dock, streets and alleys. Began his duties on May 15.

John Brown's Work.
"John Brown has done nearly all the police patrol-work from the time he has gotten up in the morning, from 8 to 11 a. m., until he has gone off duty—anywhere from midnight to 3 a. m.—putting in as long, or longer, hours than anyone on the force. I believe all the men, in the main, to be worthy of your confidence and willing and ready at all times to do their best, as patrolmen, in safeguarding the city's interests. The report was concluded with a statement that there had been 27 dogs killed since the first of the year and numerous calls for the settlement of difficulties relative to the canine race.

PLEASANT EVENING BY THE MEN'S CLUB

Methodist Church Parlor Were the Scene of a Delightful Gathering Last Evening.

The men's league of the Central M. E. church gave a ladies' night banquet at the church parlors last evening and covers were laid for 130. After a bountiful supper a literary and musical program was introduced and for two and a half hours the flow of reason and feast of soul was thoroughly enjoyed.
The club was fortunate in securing the consent of Miss Alice Clithero to act as toastmistress. It was discovered before her introduction was fairly launched that she was a past master in the high art of a presiding genius, and from the opening number to the good-night song, her ready wit, sharp repartee, and fund of stories kept the audience in the best of humor, and made it easy for the speakers.

The topic discussed was life in its various stages. Mrs. George Jacobs spoke of childhood as the golden age, while Superintendent Showalter of the State School for the Blind handled the topic from the age of youth to maturity and active life. He believed that men are at their best from 25 to 40. He presented strong and forcible arguments to support his claim. The suicide age according to the Osler theory was handled by H. P. Bliss and Rev. J. H. Tippet closed the discussion in an earnest appeal as to the importance of eternal life as connected with every stage of the journey.

During the evening Mrs. Susie Lowell Hibbard of Tokio, Japan, gave an interesting talk on the Japanese soldier. It was a timely topic just now, and in the hands of Mrs. Hibbard the loyalty and patriotism of the men who are winning such wonderful victories was vividly portrayed.

The program was enlivened by vocal solos from Mr. Brooks and Miss Kora, while a quartette of girls, composed of Lillie Laura, Florence Gohm, Anna Tibbet and Tominda Carlyle from the State School for Blind, rendered a number of selections, which were much enjoyed. Miss Shoemaker gave a recitation which called forth an encore. The club will take a vacation during the summer and will resume its meetings next October.

PLEADED GUILTY TO ALTERING CHECK

E. W. Daily of Beloit Was Punished With a Heavy Fine in Municipal Court Late Yesterday.

Late yesterday afternoon E. W. Daily, the Beloit young man who was arrested in Illinois some time ago on the charge of raising a check for $10.40 paid him by the Fairbanks-Morse Co. to $10.40, appeared in municipal court and pleaded guilty. He was fined $50 and costs, amounting in all to about $80, and the prisoner's father paid the fine. The court found that there were some extenuating circumstances such as the degree of temptation to which the lad was subjected and the necessities which pressed him and it being his first offense, decided to give him another chance in the world. The check was cashed on Feb. 11 at the establishment of Boyle & Noble in the Line city and the author of the rather clumsy forgery left town that night. He was arrested at Wauconda, Lake county, Ill. Daily is twenty-two years of age.

BEST WISHES OF A HOST OF FRIENDS

Follow Rev. and Mrs. J. T. Henderson to Their New Home in Minnesota—Farewell Reception.

Friends from many churches gathered in the First Presbyterian parlors last evening for a farewell to Rev. and Mrs. J. T. Henderson who are to leave for their new home at Meriam Park, near St. Paul, Minn. The reception committee consisted of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Wortendyke of Meriam Park, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Kline, Mr. and Mrs. A. Galbraith, and Miss Purcell. Members of Rev. Henderson's Sunday school class, the Westminster club, and Mrs. Henderson's class, the King's Messengers, served refreshments and Bauman's orchestra, the Y. M. C. A. quartette, Mrs. Rexford, and Athol E. Rollins, took part in an appropriate musical program.

HAIRY-FACED INSANE MAN TAKING STROLL

Fred Rankie Escapes From County Asylum—Harmless Patient Who Takes Long Walks.

Fred Rankie, the hairy-faced stroller, escaped from the Rock county insane asylum yesterday and is thought that he has started on a long walk, which is with him just a habit. The man is a very repulsive looking specimen of humanity, his face being nearly covered with a growth of black hair, but is perfectly harmless. His native home is Marinette county and was sent to the asylum here seven or eight years ago. He has run away from the institution several times and each occasion figured in some eccentric action. At one time he went to Delavan with but very little clothing to cover his body; on another occasion he walked to Paw Paw, Michigan, and about four years ago took a little stroll to Champaign, Illinois. He is a German of about forty-five years, short and thick set. His hair grows very low upon his forehead and short black whiskers almost hide his face and his complexion is dark and swarthy. When he left yesterday he wore a black coat, hickory shirt, blue denim overalls and common work shoes. His clothing was marked "Rankie." He talks German very poorly and only with difficulty can he make himself understood. Information leading to his recovery will be appreciated and rewarded by Superintendent of the Rock County Asylum K. Killam.

DO NOT FORGET THE COMING CELEBRATION

Subscription Lists for the Fourth of July Celebration Should Be Liberally Signed.

Today is circus day. The next great day for Janesville is the Fourth. Why the Fourth? Because on the Fourth of July Janesville is to celebrate in a manner truly befitting its dignity as the leading city in southern Wisconsin. There are others that are larger perhaps, but none more enterprising and hustling. Janesville plans to celebrate the Fourth and to invite all its neighboring cities to come and help her enjoy the biggest and best celebration ever held. In order to make this a fact everyone should subscribe to the celebration fund when the paper reaches you. Money makes the mare go and money begets money are two old and trite sayings that have come down to us through the years. They are true. Subscribe to the fund that the celebration may attract thousands of visitors. These visitors will spend money here and this means more coin of the realm in circulation. Hence money begets money. There is to be another mass meeting at the city hall next Friday evening to which the public are invited. Not only the general public are expected but also the committees appointed at the last meeting. There is much to be done to assure the success of the day and the hearty co-operation of every citizen is desired. Already "Col." McKee, chairman of the None Such Brothers' circus has had a letter from the famous Colonel himself stating he and his cohorts of funmakers will be only too glad to be in Janesville on the Fourth and for Mr. McKee to go ahead and take the names of those who will take part. A half dozen new and unique "skits" have been promised and with this start and the old stand-bys to draw from the success of the parade is assured. The next thing on the program or rather the first thing is the raising of the funds for the whole celebration.

ALUMNI ADOPTED A NEW CONSTITUTION

High School Graduates' Association Met Last Night Transacted Much Business—Mrs. Helms President.

Amended by-laws and a new constitution were adopted and committees appointed at the conference of the alumni of the Janesville high school last evening. It was decided to hold two meetings each year, one on the second Tuesday in May and the other on the last Tuesday in June. In the past there has been but one meeting and bills that have not been met have had to be carried through the summer. It was also decided to exact a regular membership fee of 25 cents a month, leaving it to the committee to decide each year what form of an entertainment shall be given. The banquet this year takes place on Friday, June 16. Mrs. Walter Helms was elected president of the association. The other officers are: vice-president, Roy C. Palmer; secretary, Kathryn L. Fenton; and treasurer, Charles Reeder.

MRS. MARY E. BROWN WEDS A DENVER MAN

Ceremony Was Performed in Rochester on the Eighteenth of the Present Month.

One of the Gazette's friends has sent to the editorial desk a clipping from a paper evidently published in the neighborhood of Denver, Col., giving a very interesting account of the wedding on May 18 of Mrs. Mary E. Brown of Janesville and a citizen of that locality. The account is as follows:

"B. F. Anderson sprung a surprise on his neighbors in South Denver last Thursday evening by bringing home a new housekeeper to whom he was united in marriage on Thursday morning at the residence of the officiating minister, Dr. William Hill, in Rochester. The bride was formerly Mrs. Mary E. Brown of Janesville, Wis. She and Mr. Anderson met in a church convention several months ago and the latter has visited her several times since, their friendship finally culminating in the happy event above mentioned. Mr. and Mrs. Anderson have our congratulations and we join their friends in wishing them a happy future. Mrs. Anderson's daughter, Mrs. Rosa Gayton, and her two little children, also of Janesville, are here to spend most of the summer with them."

PLAN A CONCERT FOR ORGAN BENEFIT

Ladies of Trinity Church Have Arranged for a Delightful Concert.

The Trinity church has secured Alfred Hiles Bergen for a concert to be given at the Congregational church Monday evening next, the proceeds from which are to be put into the organ fund, which is being created for the purchase of a new pipe organ. Mr. Bergen is a baritone singer of unusual ability, in fact is credited with being one of the wonders of the present time. Edward De Pescke says Alfred Hiles Bergen has "the divine spark of genius," his singing and interpretation of music is little short of wonderful, and Janesville's music lovers will have an opportunity not often met with in listening to Mr. Bergen.

DID NOT TRY TO BE DOG IN THE MANGER

Janesville Did Not Seek to Steal the Beloit Base Ball Franchise.

Eminating from La Crosse comes the story that Janesville has made a bid for a franchise in the Wisconsin State League. The story is sensational and accuses Janesville of trying to steal Beloit's franchise away from it and thus gain an entrance in the league. As far as can be learned it is made from whole cloth. Men who were interested in promoting a base ball team here early in the season deny the story and claim they know nothing of any such deal. The La Crosse story says that when the league was formed and it was found that only seven clubs could qualify that Janesville was dropped from the list because of the fact that no Sunday ball could be played here. Those who remember the inside workings of this deal will remember that though for a time it did look as though Janesville might be able to raise the requisite twenty-five hundred dollars' guarantee for a team still at the last minute the plan was abandoned not because Sunday ball was not allowed but because the money could not be raised. Janesville dropped the league, not the league Janesville. The La Crosse tale also recounts the fact that since the season began Janesville and another city, not named, applied for admission and were turned down because the schedule could not easily be rearranged. The statement that Janesville seeks to oust Beloit is laughed at by Beloit men. Beloit has had a bad streak of losing and to help out the financial end have arranged to play one game of every series that are scheduled for Beloit in Janesville and some of the others will probably be played at Yost's Park. In fact the three games for Friday, Saturday and Sunday with Forepaugh are already scheduled for Yost's Park and the first game with Oshkosh on Tuesday next for Athletic park, Janesville. Janesville fans interested in the welfare of the Beloit team will thus have an opportunity of seeing up the Line City aggregation very shortly and help root them to victory over Maurice Crall's Oshkosh Indians.

WRITTEN IN RED

CHAS. HOWARD MONTAGUE AND C. W. DYAR

(Copyright, by The Cassell Publishing Co.)

When Thomas found himself in the cool air of the June night again, he hastened at a round pace in the direction of Newspaper Row. He was near the door of his own office when a man jumped from a horse car and tapped him upon the shoulder. It was Detective John Lamm, direct from Swampscott.

"What's your hurry, Kingman?" he inquired, with the easy assurance of a familiar acquaintance. "Come up into my office a few minutes. I want to talk with you."

Reporter Thomas consulted his watch. "The fact is, old man," he said, with a frank smile, "I'm rather driven to-night. It's that North mystery, you understand."

"How do you know that isn't the very matter I wanted to talk with you about?" returned Mr. Lamm, taking the reporter's arm with good-humored insistence, and escorting him, half-reluctantly, to his own private den, as he called it.

"Kingman, I know you, and you know me," said the detective, after they were fairly settled in their chairs. "I came to me when I saw you just now that we might work this case together. It wouldn't be the first case we have handled together, eh?"

"You're right," said Thomas. "Now, I'm interested in this North mystery very particularly, you understand," pursued Mr. Lamm, quite warming to his subject, now that he was closeted with a tried friend, and at an hour when he was reasonably secure from interruption. "Not for the government, of course. Private parties. And my opinion, gathered from all I have been able to ascertain about the case, is that it is very mysterious, very complicated, and may baffle even the most thorough investigation."

Thomas pursed up his lips, and regarded the gas jet doubtfully. "You don't think so, eh?"

"When I hear what Thornton Stackhouse's alibi is, I can answer you better."

"Alibi, eh? So you have the medical examiner's report? Good! Just what I was after. When did North die?"

"The reporter laughingly parried this query with another.

"Do you suppose I have the doctor's report on the autopsy in my coat pocket?"

Mr. Lamm ventured to express a throwed suspicion that his friend did not possess, by some fortunate chance or other, the essential facts of that report, and Mr. Thomas quite justified that suspicion by letting him know, in strict confidence, the outcome of his interview with the surgeon.

The detective uttered a long, low whistle.

"Curious! Mighty curious!" he commented.

"If you'll be so good as to give me an opportunity," suggested Thomas, "I'll be pleased to ejaculate with you."

"Um—ha! You said a moment ago, Thomas, that your opinion of the case would depend upon the alibi of Thornton Stackhouse. What would you say if I told you that the said gentleman's elsewhere has one weak spot in it, involving the precise period of time that you have mentioned?"

"I should say nothing, but remain in hourly expectation of Thornton Stackhouse's arrest."

"Very well. See that you do say nothing, for the secret is yours and mine at present. And so you have already convicted the poor fellow?"

John Lamm took one of the cigars which stood upright in the upper pocket of his vest, and drew a match against the under side of his chair, which was tipped back against the wall.

"I must confess," Thomas replied, "that it looks to me something that way."

Shot Full of Holes.

"I am 65 years old, and have been a great sufferer from headache all my life. One of Dr. Miles' circulars was left at my door, and what it contained about headache interested me, so that I determined to invest a dollar in their make of shot, and go gunning for that headache. The first charge brought it down, but I continued to shoot until the thing was shot so full of holes that I believe it will never come to life again. I consider it the work of a 'good Samaritan,' to spread the knowledge of what Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills will do."

I. F. MOORE, 1352 Fairfax Ave., Bridgeport, Conn.

Headache, Neuralgia, Sciatica, Backache, Stomachache, Bearing Down Pains, Rheumatic Pain, or Pain from any cause yields readily to the soothing influence of Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills upon the nerves, the irritated condition of which causes the pain. "Oh, indeed, yes. The evidence is strong—even stronger, probably, than you know—against him. But then—"

In lieu of continuing, Lamm lit his cigar.

"Thomas, what is your definition of a good theory of a mystery?" he suddenly inquired, as he threw the match from him.

"I don't know that I ever thought of defining it."

"Well, I'll tell you what mine is. A good theory is one which thoroughly explains all the facts in the case."

"Short and comprehensive," said Thomas.

"I subscribe to it. That's my idea. Now, is there any fact in the case, so far known, inconsistent with Thornton Stackhouse being the man?"

"None at all."

"Ah! And yet I can see plainly enough that you don't subscribe to my opinion. Is there any fact which the supposition of his guilt leaves unexplained?"

"There is one fact which the supposition of his guilt does not explain."

"Well, now we are coming to the point. What is it?"

"It doesn't explain to my mind why a certain individual of my acquaintance should be so anxious to convict him."

"Name the man."

"It would be a breach of professional etiquette. But as you and I are old friends, Thomas, and never betray each other's confidences, I don't mind saying to you that, if you can get hold of any facts tending to explain Mr. Richard Petridge's strong interest in this case, I shall be exceedingly obliged if you will bring them to me."

"Jupiter!" exclaimed Thomas, opening his eyes; "there is more in this case, then, than I thought!"

And when he left the room after a half-hour's further conversation, it was with the conviction that, unless some unexpected thing happened to determine otherwise, the North mystery would turn out to be a complication worthy of his best thought and his most skillful treatment.

CHAPTER VII.
THE INSPECTOR DISCOVERS NEW EVIDENCE.

The Friday when the body of Paul North was discovered, and the day following, were two exceedingly busy days for the police department, under the active superintendence and guidance of Inspector Applebee.

Again and again he had examined every nook and corner, turning his bull's-eye upon the recesses of every trunk and box, sounding every cask and receptacle, making sure that nowhere within the four walls of Paul North's home was hidden the weapon which had caused Paul North's death.

It was with rather a puzzled countenance and a mind unsettled and ill at ease that about noon on Saturday he sought a conference with his chief at headquarters; for even Inspector Applebee had his superior officer.

"Well, Applebee!" said the chief inspector, as the door was closed, and the two men found themselves alone in the little office, "are you prepared to make any arrests? What's on your mind? Have you found out anything?"

"Found out anything? I've found out too much. There's just the trouble. When I woke up this morning my mind was settled. Four hours' work and it's all at sea again. Fully prepared to make an arrest to-day, I've now reached a point where I don't know whom to suspect, or what to think."

"Well, take this morning for a starting point. When we separated last night, you were sure the partner was our man."

"I was. In the first place, North seemed to have written his name on the wall in his own blood. Now, it strikes me that an accusation made at the moment of death is a very solemn one. A man isn't likely at such a time to indulge in feelings of petty spite or practical joking, is he, now?"

"I should say not, decidedly. But why were you so sure that he wrote it?"

"Because the doctors say he could have done it, and that there are few circumstances of death like that under which such a thing could happen. And it strikes me that to assume somebody else did it in face of such a report, is taking too much advantage of what must be in that case a remarkable coincidence."

"Coincidences happen," said the chief, shortly.

"So they do. But in nine hundred and ninety-nine chances out of a thousand, if a murderer endeavored to throw us off by such a ruse, the medical examiner would discover the trick at a glance, and denounce the writing as a fraud."

"Even so. How do you know what North had in his mind to write? He might have started in to declare 'Stackhouse is my executor,' or 'Stackhouse inherits my property,' or 'Stackhouse is—' anything else you may please to imagine."

"True," said Applebee, doubtfully.

"And then, again, we are not unquestionably sure that the writing is intended for Stackhouse, are we?"

"After two hours of inspection and experiment, I am fully persuaded that it cannot be anything else."

"And how does Stackhouse himself impress you?"

"Confound the man! He puzzles me. I had a long talk with him this morning. He carries a 32 caliber pistol. There are no signs of its having been recently discharged."

"I presume he knows how to clean it," said the chief inspector, dryly.

"No doubt and how to fire it, too. But what good does that do us? I put the case to him plainly. I said: 'Stackhouse, this is no time for conventionalities. People are beginning to talk. Better clear it up at once by giving me an alibi.' Shoot me, if he didn't say that between eight and nine, when Jarrett says North was shot, he was walking in the Public Garden alone, 'smoking a cigar.'"

"Looks bad."

"So it does. But the queerest thing is that he is not living at home. Where did Thornton Stackhouse spend last night? At his house at the beach, where the women folk would certainly be expected to need him at such a time as this, of all times? No, sir, at the Adams house."

"That means trouble in the family."

"And very serious trouble. Men quarrel with their wives often enough; but not often under such circumstances as these."

"How did you find the family?"

"Frightened to death. Stupid. Idiot. Stackhouse's wife alone preserves her senses, and she is a tartar. She seemed to take my visit as a personal affront, and read me a lecture on propriety. I confess I lost my temper. 'Do you intend to hinder justice all you can, or to help it?' said I. 'It's not in my province to do either,' she said, with a defiant look in her eye. 'I shall let justice take its course.' I can forgive a young woman with plenty of money for doing a great deal, but there's such a thing as overdoing the high and mighty. I couldn't imagine what made her seem so unmoved by her father's death till I learned that she's not his daughter after all."

"No?"

"An adopted child."

"Adopted at what age?"

"Took her out of the Temporary Home in Charles street when she was a year old."

"Watch that woman."

"You may be sure I shall."

"How about the other daughter?"

"She's his own daughter, but I didn't see her. I was given to understand she was completely prostrated by her father's death. She is between 17 and 18 years old, and I doubt if she could help us at all."

"But all this doesn't explain what has unsettled your ideas about Stackhouse. So far you have only confirmed your own suspicions."

"Ah, but there have been several new facts. At an early hour this morning, I deputized two men to make a thorough canvass of the neighborhood for the purpose of ascertaining whether anybody had been seen going in or coming out of the North house on the night of the murder. Unfortunately the people who live directly opposite, who would be more likely to have observed than anybody else, left for Newport yesterday morning. Still, we have found a servant girl, Hannah Doyle, who lives several houses farther down. This woman positively declares that when she was returning home after dark about half-past nine on Thursday night, she saw a woman—a young woman, she believes—come down the steps of the North house and walk away."

"The deuce she did! Can she not be mistaken in the house?"

"She says not. What made her notice the woman and remember the circumstance was the peculiar fact that anybody should be coming out of a house boarded up for the summer. And no other house for several doors except the North house is boarded up."

"This is important, Applebee."

"I think so."

"Half-past nine must have been later than the murder. Consequently the woman must have been the criminal or an accomplice."

"She could not have failed to know that North had been killed even if she had no part in the deed. The fact that she gave no alarm—has not spoken a word since—declares her complicity."

"It seems proof positive."

"Another fact, if you please. I have discovered that North had somewhere in his possession a 32 caliber pistol. That pistol was presumably in the Marlboro street house on the night of the murder. I have searched the premises from top to bottom without finding a trace of it."

"That has an odd look, too."

"But," continued Applebee, with a meaning emphasis, "I did find the box of cartridges—nearly filled—in a drawer of the writing desk in the library where the man was shot. The drawer was closed, but the box was open."

"Important," said the chief inspector, quickly. "Important. Now, how thorough has been your search of the premises?"

"I did not take any chances. I took two men with me. We even visited the coal bins and examined the ash barrels in detail. Stackhouse has been eager to afford us any help. He has even given us every key we asked for. The search has been thorough. The pistol is not there."

"So then it only remains to discover who that woman was."

"So it seems."

"Have you no clue?"

"Just one."

"Of what nature?"

Women Golfers Abroad

Group of Noted Americans Invade England to Compete in the Championship Tourney—Miss Bishop, Title Holder, Heads Party—Their Opponents.

The group of women golfers who will compete abroad for the British championship recently arrived in London. The team is entered in only one tournament, the national event for the women's championship of Great Britain.

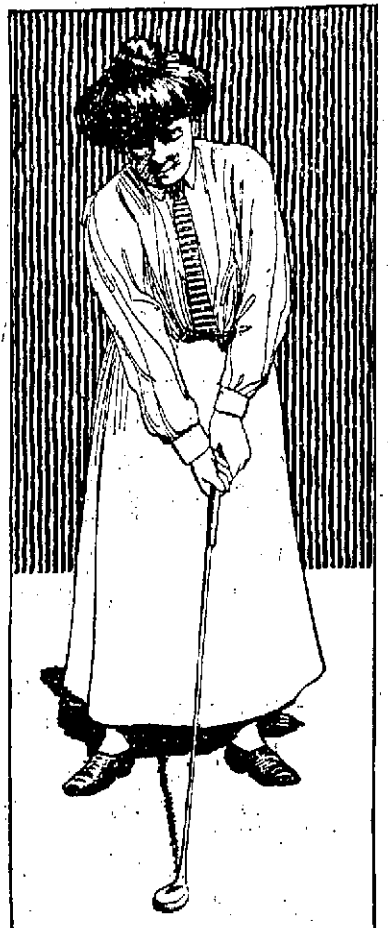

MISS GEORGINA BISHOP, AMERICAN GOLF CHAMPION.

The American golfers spent all their spare time in practice after their arrival, which was needed, as the English season opens much earlier than that in America, and their players are more seasoned at the time of the national tournaments. The American team will return to this country on June 17, a week after the close of the tournament.

Some of the very best women golfers in America compose the team of eight. Miss Georgiana Bishop of New York, who won the national tournament for the American championship on the Merion (Pa.) links last October, is a member of the team. Others are Miss Ethel Burnett of New York; Miss Margaret Curtis and Miss Harriet Curtis of Boston, both noted players; Miss Emily Lockwood, and Miss Molly Adams of Boston.

Miss Griscom is a former national champion and is regarded as one of the best golfers in the country. Her scores have been close to the top in all the national tournaments. Mrs. Samuel Bettie is also an expert golfer and capable of defending well the honor of the Philadelphia club.

There will be pitted against this team at the English national tournament Miss Lottie Dod, the present champion of Great Britain, and Miss Rhona Adair, who held the championship in the preceding year. Both Miss Dod and Miss Adair have played in this country. Miss Dod competed in

MISS FRANCES C. GRISCOM, EX-CHAMPION, the national tournament on the Merion links last fall and was decisively beaten, nearly all of the team of eight who will make the coming invasion of England flaunting with lower scores than hers.

Miss Adair won an invitation tournament on the same links the previous autumn, playing against virtually the same golfers, so that in a comparison of form she should win the tournament.

John Boyle of Terre Haute will resign as president of the Indiana United Mineworkers tomorrow because of failing health. He is the fourth president resigning because his duties caused ill health.

CARICATURE SKETCH OF J. KIER HARDIE. Mr. Hardie is a socialist and independent member of Parliament. He has organized the great national demonstration in favor of the unemployed bill, and will lead the British "Coxy army" of unemployed men to London sometime in June.

scored a complete victory over the Russian fleet in the engagement of Saturday and Sunday. Out of eight battleships which Admiral Rojestvensky had under his command, only two appear to have escaped, the remaining six either having been sunk, captured or seriously damaged. The following are the Russian ships which either were sunk or captured:

Vessels Sunk
Battleships.
Borodino—12,516 tons, 13 knots; armament, four 12-inch, 11 6-inch, 6 torpedo tubes, 740 men.
Alexander III—12,516 tons, 13 knots; armament, 4 12-inch, 12 6-inch, 6 torpedo tubes, (2 submerged), 740 men.

Armored Cruisers.
Admiral Nakhimoff—8,524 tons, 16.7 knots; armament, 8 8-inch, 10 6-inch, 4 torpedo tubes, 637 men.
Dmitri Donstov—6,200 tons, 16.5 knots; armament, 6 6-inch, 10 4.7-inch, 4 torpedo tubes, 510 men.
Vladimir Monomakh—5,593 tons, 15.7 knots; armament, 5 8-inch, 12 6-inch, 2 torpedo tubes, 550 men.

Protected Cruisers.
Jemchug—3,106 tons, 23 knots; armament, 4 7-inch, 5 torpedo tubes, 340 men.
Sviegiana—3,892 tons, 20.0 knots; armament, 6 5.9-inch (Cunet), 5 torpedo tubes, 360 men.

Coast Defense Ships.
Admiral Oushakov—4,648 tons, 16 knots; armament, 4 9-inch, 4 6-inch, 4 torpedo tubes, 313 men.
Two destroyers, two transports and one repairship, the Kamchatka.

Vessels Captured
Battleships.
Arel—13,516 tons, 13 knots; armament, 4 12-inch, 12 6-inch, 4 torpedo tubes, 740 men.
Nicolai I—9,672 tons, 14.8 knots; armament, 2 12-inch, 4 9-inch, 6 torpedo tubes, 740 men.
Sissoi Velty—10,400 tons, 16 knots; armament, 4 12-inch, 11 6-inch, 8 torpedo tubes, 550 men.

Withhold News
St. Petersburg, May 30.—The newspapers this morning acting under instructions of the censor express a hope for Russian success in the naval operations in the far east. This method of deceiving the people is not meeting with great success. The news of Rojestvensky's defeat is becoming generally known and the greatest alarm exists.

Struck by Mine
Tokio, May 30.—The captain of the cruiser Admiral Nakhimoff, who was among the wounded, drifted ashore and says his ship struck a mine and the terrific explosion tore out the whole bow. The vessel sank in a few minutes with nearly all the crew. The captain was thrown into the water and secured a hold on a damaged launch and was picked up. The reports state several Russian vessels were sunk by mines. The fighting is still in progress north of the straits. The results are unknown.

The White Flag
London, May 30.—A dispatch to the Morning Post from Shanghai says the Russian transports off Wosung hauled down their flags today.
